PART 3: SATANIC TECHNOLOGY TRANSFER

SATAN WORSHIP

Most Christians don't know what is taught in the Jewish Cabala which is a set of some 650 books.¹ In the end time, the world religion will be worshipping the Devil and his ruler. Revelation 13:4

The Cabala teaches that the God of Abraham is the bad God and the source of all evil. Lucifer is the good and real god; therefore, during the reign of this Jewish global ruler, he will introduce his god to be worshipped. Since there will be such a power display from Lucifer and his global ruler, people will gladly accept Lucifer as their god and the global leader as the messiah.

Christian Zionist pastors and their followers are going to face some difficult issues at this time. They believe that Jesus, the son of Mary, is the Messiah that came thousands of years ago, but what are they going to do with this man who claims he is the Jewish Messiah?

John Hagee (if he is still alive) will claim that God has a special deal for the Jewish people and they are now back in their own land. This global ruler has taken them under his wings and Jerusalem is not only the capitol of Israel, but of the whole world. The temple has been rebuilt, sacrifices have resumed and all the prophecies of the Old Testament have been fulfilled.

At this time Christian Zionists will be forced to reject Jesus as the Messiah or they must reject the global ruler as the messiah because they won't be able to have it both ways.

Since the Bibles used in most Christian churches have been revised time and time again, people will not be able to turn to their Bibles and find any answers. Amos 8:11-13

As a result, most Christians will be so confused that they will believe that this global ruler is really Jesus who has come back to set up His kingdom on this earth. 2 Thessalonians 2:8-12

GLOBAL CONTROL

During the last six thousand years there has been one empire after the other occupying parts of the earth's surface but none has been a global empire. In order to be able to rule the entire world with its different time zones and continents, there must be a technology that up until this time has never existed before. God spoke to the prophet Daniel some 600 years before Christ that knowledge would increase during the end times. But until the end time, the revelation that Daniel received was to be sealed. Daniel 12:4-13

TECHNOLOGY

All technology is a creation of God; man does not invent anything, we only discover what God had created before the foundation of the world.

Technology remained at a very low level after the flood. In the Middle East area, people advanced and lived in cities and formed states and empires, while people living in other areas of the world lived in the Stone Age. This is still true today as there are some primitive tribes in different parts of the world that still live in the Stone Age.

Black powder was discovered in China around 1000 A.D. and then in England around 1242. The first primitive gun was produced by the Arabs around 1300 and the production and use of muskets in Europe did not begin until around 1650. When political leaders realized the great killing capacity of this weapon, all nations began to build muskets and develop this technology to make better firearms which could kill more people than any other previous weapon.

Gutenberg, the German craftsman, had perfected his technical discovery of a printing press around 1450. There is no doubt that this skill and knowledge was imparted by God since all Bibles up to this time were handwritten. The Bible became available to the common man along with educational books that could be mass produced and used in grammar schools to universities. Exodus 31:1-4; 35:30-35

Without the printing press, there would have been no explosion of knowledge.

From the time of Christ to around 1663, man was able to improve tools and equipment, but there was no dramatic change for the human race. But that changed with the discovery of electricity, and for the next 174 years, scientists and engineers in Europe and the United States tried to learn how to produce and use it in practical applications.

Electricity is the mechanical “spirit” that gives life to all mechanical and electronic equipment.

AN EXPLOSION OF KNOWLEDGE

Until 1769, Horses, camels, donkeys, mules and oxen had been the “engines” for all transportation on land. But that changed when man discovered the principle of a steam power which set in motion a great race to develop more and better technology. A steam engine did not need any electricity to function and by 1803 the first functional steam locomotive was built and generated a need for railroads.

Here is a short list of the knowledge explosion:

- ❖ Telegraph developed in 1837

- ❖ Gasoline combustion engine in 1860
- ❖ Telephone in 1876
- ❖ Phonograph in 1877
- ❖ Light bulb in 1879
- ❖ Automobile in 1885
- ❖ Radio in 1897
- ❖ First propeller driven airplane in 1903

The four years of World War I (1914-1918) was a period of time when Satan inspired political leaders to spend millions of dollars to develop new technology into weapon systems. Much progress was made in the development of technology which was used in the navies of the world with greater warships like battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines etc. with better guns, heavier armor and electronic firing systems and instant communication via radio.

The nations in the world developed the battle tanks, trucks, motorized artillery and the better ability to direct battles through the use of radio.

Airplanes were designed to drop bombs and operate as fighters.

Once man learned of God's great technology, it was used to build weapons, which were more efficient and able to kill larger number of people with less manpower on a faster scale.

The years between World War I and II were used to develop the weapons of war to a higher and better efficiency. Anything that benefited civilians was a by-product. The first functional television broadcast took place in the United States in 1922 and it became clear to the owners of the American radio media that this would be a future type of broadcasting.

As the military developed heavy aircraft bombers in the late 1920s, the need for a detection system stimulated the research that could spot bombers or navy ships long before the naked eye could see them. As early as in the late 1880's, German physicist Heinrich Hertz had developed a crude radar system, but there didn't have the necessary financial backing for it. A patent was filed for a radar system in 1904 but it was not until around 1930 that the U.S. military became interested and started research. By 1939 a functional radar system was in operation in the US and six units had been placed at Pearl Harbor, which worked very well at detecting the Japanese air attack in 1941, but was disregarded by the military commander.

A deadly race began between the United States and Nazi Germany to see who would be the first to develop an atomic bomb. Germany got close, but the United States won and dropped two atomic bombs on Japan in August of 1945.

But Germany pushed the technology race even further by developing the jet engine and by 1944 had operational jet fighters which participated until the end of the war. Let's not forget the German rocket industry that produced the first long range missiles which rained their deadly payload over England in the last two years of the war.

By 1950 black and white television broadcasting was an American staple, and by 1954, the three television networks began the introduction of color in broadcasting.

It was 213 years (5.1 hours for God) from the printing press until the discovery of electricity and it was 282 years (6.8 hours for God) from the discovery of electricity until the end of World War II. But the pace of knowledge would skyrocket in 1947.

ROSWELL, NEW MEXICO

The Bible tells us that the Devil has a very short time to do his work, that he is well aware of this and very angry about it. Revelation 12:7-12

According to the Bible, it has been 6,126 years since God created Adam and Eve, and in God's time it has only been 6 days, 3 hours and 18 minutes. This means that in God's timing there is only 20 hours and 42 minutes left of the seventh day. We do not know how many days God has set for mankind on this earth, but since the Bible says that the time is short, it is obvious that Satan wants to accelerate things before his time is up.

On July 4, 1947, the Devil had one of his flying craft to crash land in the desert close to the 509th Army Air Field², which is located in the vicinity of the city of Roswell in New Mexico³.

Only one week prior there had been an enormous activity of unidentified flying objects (UFOs) and a high alert had been issued due to this harassment close to some of the most sensitive military bases and the test range White Sands.

US Army Counterintelligence Command (CIC) had dispatched a large number of its operatives to the Army airbase with orders to immediately retrieve any objects found from these UFO's. Thus when the crash occurred on July 4th, they were ready and had secured the crash site in a short amount of time.

The alien craft was nearly intact with very little damage and a number of alive and dead crew members were found by the military. Later it was determined that these were not human but some kind of clones that the military could not identify.

Even though a fire truck and a police cruiser from the city of Roswell had made its way out to the crash site and hundreds of people in town had seen the craft go down, the military still denied there had been a crash and threatened the firemen and the police officer that they would be swept up if they talked, never to be seen again.

² The need for a separate air arm of the U.S. military had become clear by this time, however, and in anticipation of this, the AAF was reorganized in March 1946 along lines that emphasized functions rather than geographical areas. The basic pattern of unit organization, in descending order, was established as follows: command, air force, air division, wing, group, squadron, and flight. On July 26, 1947, the National Security Act created the independent U.S. Air Force. The National Security Act Amendments of 1949 reorganized the military services, with the Department of the Air Force included within the Department of Defense.

The craft and its crew members were taken to the Army air base. The dead crewmen were embalmed in formaldehyde and the craft and crewmembers were taken to the Air Material Command at the Wright Field Air Base in Ohio.

REVERSE ENGINEERING

The craft was carefully examined and it became clear to the engineers working on the project that they were seeing a technology that man didn't even know existed.

Only a fraction what was found is known outside the intelligence circles and the Air Force technicians working on it. The craft was wired with flexible glasslike wires which we now know as fiber optics. The craft had some kind of control center that later became known as "computer" and they found wafer boards with etched circuits which we now call circuit boards.

The windows of the craft were made of a material that when a person looked through them they could see objects even in the dark. Now we know this a night vision.

There was clothing material that could stretch but could not be cut with a pair of scissors. Today this material is known as Kevlar and is used to make bulletproof vests.

Then there were some kind of a pen shaped object that when a button was pushed it would give out a red ray that would hurt and burn if it was pointed to human skin. Today we know this as a laser.

The craft itself had no jet or rocket engines. The engineers could not find any source in the craft that would propel the craft and deduced was that it must be propelled by some kind of magnetic/electric propulsion. According to Col. Corso, they were never able to solve this problem but it might be that it was kept from him.

Here is a partial list of the technology transfer

- TRANSISTORS were developed in 1947 at Bell Telephone Laboratories. In the 1960s-70's, integrated circuit boards were developed with many transistors, diodes and resistors on semi conducting material.
- MICROPROCESSORS were developed by Intel in 1972. Life without the microchip would be unthinkable for the young people today. Microprocessors are found in things like televisions, cell phones, digital cameras, radios and mp3 players. They control the ignition in your car, fuel injection and your brake system. All electric kitchen appliances like ovens, refrigerators, and dishwashers have them. Even your washer and dryer have them.

- LASERS were developed by Columbia University in 1958. Today they are used in surgery and to remove tattoos. CD and DVD players use a laser to read the disc and stores use lasers to read bar codes at the checkout. They are also used in construction and surveying.
- STEALTH TECHNOLOGY was implemented in the F-117 fighter bomber and the B-2 heavy bomber. Stealth is achieved by coating the surface of an airplane or a ship with a material that absorbs the radar rather than reflecting it back to the sender.
- DEPLETED URANIUM was the only known metal with similar properties as the skin of the craft. It would later used in artillery and tank shells for its hardness and penetration ability.
- PARTICLE BEAM WEAPONS focus an intense beam of either electrons or neutral hydrogen atoms at a target. The particle beam is fired in pulses that travel at the near speed of light and excite the atoms in the target until they literally blow themselves apart. Whatever does not disintegrate will be destroyed electronically and rendered useless.

From the UFO crash in 1947, it only took the American military industrial complex 43 short years (1.03 hours in God's time) to develop and mass produce weapon systems that came from the fallen spirit world.

But there is another weapon system that was developed which is absolutely essential in order to have a global control over people. This system is made up of the Internet, computers, digital cameras, and surveillance and communication satellites. The end result is the Global Positioning System (GPS). One day it will be mandatory for all vehicles on the earth.

The laser technology made it possible to develop a bar code system which is mandatory for all products sold in the Western world today. Now you should be able to understand these Bible verses. Revelation 13:15-18

Remember, it's not so important how you begin your life after salvation, but how you finish it!
